SCOUTING REPORT – SEBASTIAN GRAPE

Date of Birth: 2009

Nationality: Swedish

Position: Attacking Midfielder / Forward

Club: HTFF

Report by: ScoutBridge Scouting Department

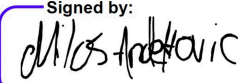

Sebastian Grape is a highly technical and intelligent attacking midfielder with the versatility to operate as a false 9, No. 8, No. 10, or wide attacker. His ability to work in tight spaces stands out immediately. He plays with close control, quick adjustments, and a natural feel for manipulating defenders. Combined with his vision and ability to switch play cleanly, he brings structure and creativity to the final third. Also, he possesses the ability to combine quick one-two passes with teammates very efficiently.

Offensively, Sebastian is already a consistent threat, not only through his passing but through his scoring ability. He positions himself well in the box, arrives at the right moments, and has the confidence to finish attacks. His movement patterns are impressively mature for his age, showing timing, intelligence, and an understanding of how to attack different types of spaces — whether running in behind, drifting between lines, or creating space for teammates.

He covers ground effectively, adapts to multiple roles, and reads attacking situations with notable clarity. As he continues to grow physically, we expect his influence on games to increase significantly.

Defensively, he needs to develop greater toughness and presence in duels, but this is a natural progression area for a player with his profile and age.

Overall, Sebastian possesses genuine long-term potential, with a profile that mixes creativity, intelligence, and end-product — a combination that is rare and highly valuable. With the right developmental environment, he has every tool to become a standout player in his generation.
